CITY OF TUMWATER ADVISORY BOARDS, COMMISSIONS AND COMMITTEES

General Information

The City of Tumwater encourages citizen participation in local governmental functions through a variety of avenues. Citizen advisory boards, commissions and committees represent an effective forum for individual participation. - ☞ Historic Preservation Commission (TMC 2.62.040) provides for exception to the City residency requirements to assure that at least two representatives are from the professional disciplines specified in the ordinances.
- ☞ Tree Board (TMC 2.66.020) provides for exception to the residency requirements to assure that at least two representatives are from the professional disciplines specified in the ordinances and (Ordinance No. O2001-018, effective November 2001) states that any one person may qualify by residing in the Tumwater urban growth area.
- ☞ The Board of Parks and Recreation Commissioners (Ordinance No. O2007-011, effective August 2007) provides for the exception to the City residency requirements stating two members out of seven members may live within the Tumwater urban growth area.
